Kevin Allec-Arreola is an attorney at Prudential Advocate who focuses on trusts, estates, and tax.

Kevin I. Allec-Arreola is a San Diego native who earned his Tax LL.M. and J.D. from the University of California, Irvine (UCI) School of Law, and his bachelor's degree from San Diego State University.

At UCI Law he served as treasurer of the Tax Law Society and developed his practical skills at the California State Tax Clinic and the Community and Economic Development Clinic. He completed more than 222 hours of pro bono service — over 150 with the Low-Income Taxpayer Clinic at Inland Counties Legal Services — earning pro bono high honors and the LITC Scholarship for his Tax LL.M. Before joining Prudential Advocate, Kevin worked as a tax intern with the State and Local Tax (SALT) group at the accounting firm Armanino.

Outside the office he is a skilled guitarist, drummer, and pianist, plays tennis, and is a native Spanish speaker.
