Kevin Allec-Arreola is an attorney at Prudential Advocate who focuses on litigation, trust & estate matters, and wills & estate planning.

Kevin I. Allec-Arreola is a San Diego native who earned his Tax LL.M. and J.D. from the University of California, Irvine (UCI) School of Law, and his bachelor's degree from San Diego State University.

During his time at UCI Law, Kevin served as treasurer for the Tax Law Society and developed his practical skills at the California State Tax Clinic and the Community and Economic Development Clinic at UCI. He completed more than 222 hours of pro bono service during his J.D., with over 150 of those hours dedicated to the Low-Income Taxpayer Clinic at Inland Counties Legal Services. In recognition of his contributions, Kevin received pro bono high honors and was awarded the LITC Scholarship to complete his Tax LL.M. at UCI. Prior to joining Prudential Advocate, Kevin worked as a Tax Intern for the accounting firm Armanino, with its State and Local Tax (SALT) group.

In his free time, he enjoys music and is a skilled guitarist, drummer, and pianist. Kevin also plays tennis and is a native Spanish speaker.
